DARING OF SAILORS IN THE FIGHT AT HILONGAS.

Letter of Major Andrews to Lieut. scribing the Engagement.

The Navy Department has issued a gen reaching a line about seventy-five feet therefrom, when they were fired on from Robinson, both of Baltimore, Md.; Harry the church and the fort surrounding it. W. Harris and Maggie M. Silverson, both it waited while the church and works were of Baltimore, Md.; Thomas E. Lynch and shelled by the gunboat. During this time Gunner Howard set up the gun in the street fronting the barricade and fired one belt of ammunition for effect only, as there was no living target. For some reason, no doubt defective ammunition, the work of the gun was not satisfactory, as it jammed five times during the firing of one belt. Gunner Howard could not be to blame as he was as cool as though at mess on shipboard; in fact, throughout the whole engagement he was constantly at the forefront and an example of coolness and quiet

Major Andrews further says: "The conduct of the men who came under my in-dividual notice at Hilongas • • and again of Coxswain William G. Thordsen from the gunboat, who, detailed as signal man, after signaling 'cease firing,' joined me at the church and three different times. volunteered to lead in cases of extreme danger. His spirit was superb, and he is a fine example of the stuff of which American soldiers are made, that enables them to go into such hell holes as they did that day and by their very dauntless dash and valor counterbalance all odds in men and fortifications, while they so stampeded this cowardly, soulless enemy as to render their fire action practically worthless, and enables us to win these almost bloodless victories." States navy, commanding the Pampanga, grand jury.

"Both were fine in their respective lines. and I inclose herewith extracts from my official report showing the character of their work, done under my immediate eye.

I wish to add further in relation to Thordsen, that from my position in the line I saw him standing on a little hillock on our left flank coolly signaling you to open fire on the church while himself clearly exposed to the small arms fire from the church tower at about 150 yards range. Not alone for this, which was clearly in his line of duty, but for his superb nerve and daring when, a volunteer, he was with me later in the close flerce fighting around the church. I esteem his work worthy of whatever consideration the department may see fit to show him, and it is largely with this in view that I have written." Lieutenant Payne, in a letter to the Navy Department, says of Coxswain Thordsen that his conduct appears to deserve a medal of honor, and he recommends that the same be given him, as his duties did not require him to volunteer to enter places when it was necessary to call for volunteers to go, but this he did three times. Coxswain Thordsen is accordingly award-

Special Committee to Resume Work. The special committee of the Bar Association, of which Mr. Ashley M. Gould is chairman, appointed to examine, and, if deemed advisable, to suggest changes in the proposed code of law for the District of Columbia, has not, it is stated, owing to the recent continued hot weather, made any material progress. It is the intention of Chairman Gould to call a meeting of the committee for early next week and to take steps to proceed with the preparation of a report without delay.

Four months' operations of the Porto Rican tariff law show an increase of more months of 1899, and more than 300 per cent as compared with the corresponding months The act went into effect May 1, 1900, so that the figures for August, which have just been completed by the treasury bureau law, and render practicable a comparison of the four months term with corresponding periods in preceding years.

The corresponding four months in 1899 cover a period in which the island was under the American flag, but subject to the customs laws of the United States which relate to foreign countries. The correspondand do not therefore furnish a fair basis for comparison. The corresponding four months of 1897 and 1896 present normal conditions in the commerce between the Island and the United States when it was Spanish terri-It is therefore now practicable to contrast the commerce between the United States

tions of the new law with a corresponding period prior to the enactment of this law when the island was under the American flag and also with corresponding periods and to determine whether the enactment of the new law was followed by an increase in our commerce with the island. The Wilmington has and purchasing power of the island as compared with the corresponding period in former years. It is the more surprising, therefore, to find that the island has during the four months since the enactment of the law sent to the United States $3,250,000 been ordered to New York to fit out for worth of her exports, as against $1,984,000 $1,183,000 in the corresponding months of 1897, and $1,360,000 in the same months of 1896; and that its people have been able to that period $2,525,000 worth of our exports, against $1,132,000 worth in the corresponding months of 1899, $629,000 worth in 1897 and $587,000 worth in the corresponding months of 1896. The table which follows shows the imports from, and exports to, the island, in its commerce with the United States, during May, June, July and August of 1896, 1899 and 1900, respectively, and the total for each period, and thus enables a comparison by months and by the entire period both with 1899, when the island was under the American flag, but subject to the general custom laws of the United States, navy, more formidable than the Oregon or | and with 1896 and 1897, when it was Spanthe Alabama, will be the peer of any Eu- ish territory.
